international trauma symposium

September 7-8, 2007

*The Fairmont Turnberry Isle
Resort and Club
Aventura, Florida*

Activity Goal/Purpose

This 2 day CME activity is intended to provide state of the art information on managing orthopaedic injuries caused by trauma, so that the surgeon attendees will enhance their knowledge of clinical and technological aspects of fracture fixation and management.

Conference Overview

This conference will provide an international forum for discussing treatment options for simple and complex fractures involving the shoulder, elbow, wrist and hand, pelvis, long bones of the arm and leg, and foot and ankle. There will be presentations not only on fixation choices and techniques, but also on minimizing and managing complications. There will be an opportunity to participate in bioskills workshops using "sawbones" models under the tutelage of expert faculty. Breakout sessions provide an opportunity for smaller group interaction and in-depth discussions with faculty. The course is intended for practicing orthopaedic surgeons, orthopaedic fellows and residents who desire an update in fracture management. There will be ample opportunity for discussion and peer to peer interaction.

Course Highlights

- Fractures About the Hip
- Complex Metaphyseal/Peri-articular Fractures of the Distal Radius
- Femoral Shaft and Nailing
- Fractures About the Foot and Ankle
- Infection, Osteoporosis and Osteobiologics
- Meet the Expert Sessions
- Clinical Case Reviews
- Workshops

Objectives

Upon completion of this course, the surgeon should be able to:

1. Formulate strategies for managing fractures based on fracture type and patient factors.
2. Examine controversial surgical choices in fracture repair, weighing potential advantages and disadvantages.
3. Discuss the current state of science and practices with polytrauma.
4. Evaluate current rehabilitation strategies for upper and lower extremity injuries.
5. Evaluate reports of clinical outcomes for their potential impact on patient management.
6. Demonstrate surgical techniques in fracture management on sawbone models.
